

Terrace House is a 68-bed residential medically supervised substance withdrawal and stabilization program.

Our Medically Supervised Withdrawal (Detox) program provides 24/7 medical and nursing staff to safely withdraw patients from substances of abuse. Patients receive medications and individual and group treatment to help them with their symptoms, and are linked at discharge to ongoing treatment to stabilize their newly established abstinence.

Our Stabilization program serves patients who are not experiencing acute withdrawal symptoms, but require personalized and holistic care in a residential setting to support their successfully initiating an ongoing recovery. Each patients' length of stay is dependent on their specific needs, including those for their addiction, physical health, mental health, and family reintegration. Treatment includes patients' developing the skills to manage their addiction thoughts and cravings, coordination with medical providers to prescribe needed medications, interventions to stabilize patients' mental and physical health conditions, the incorporation of families and community support systems, and aftercare planning.

Terrace House offers a comprehensive multidisciplinary team approach based on the highest professional standards.

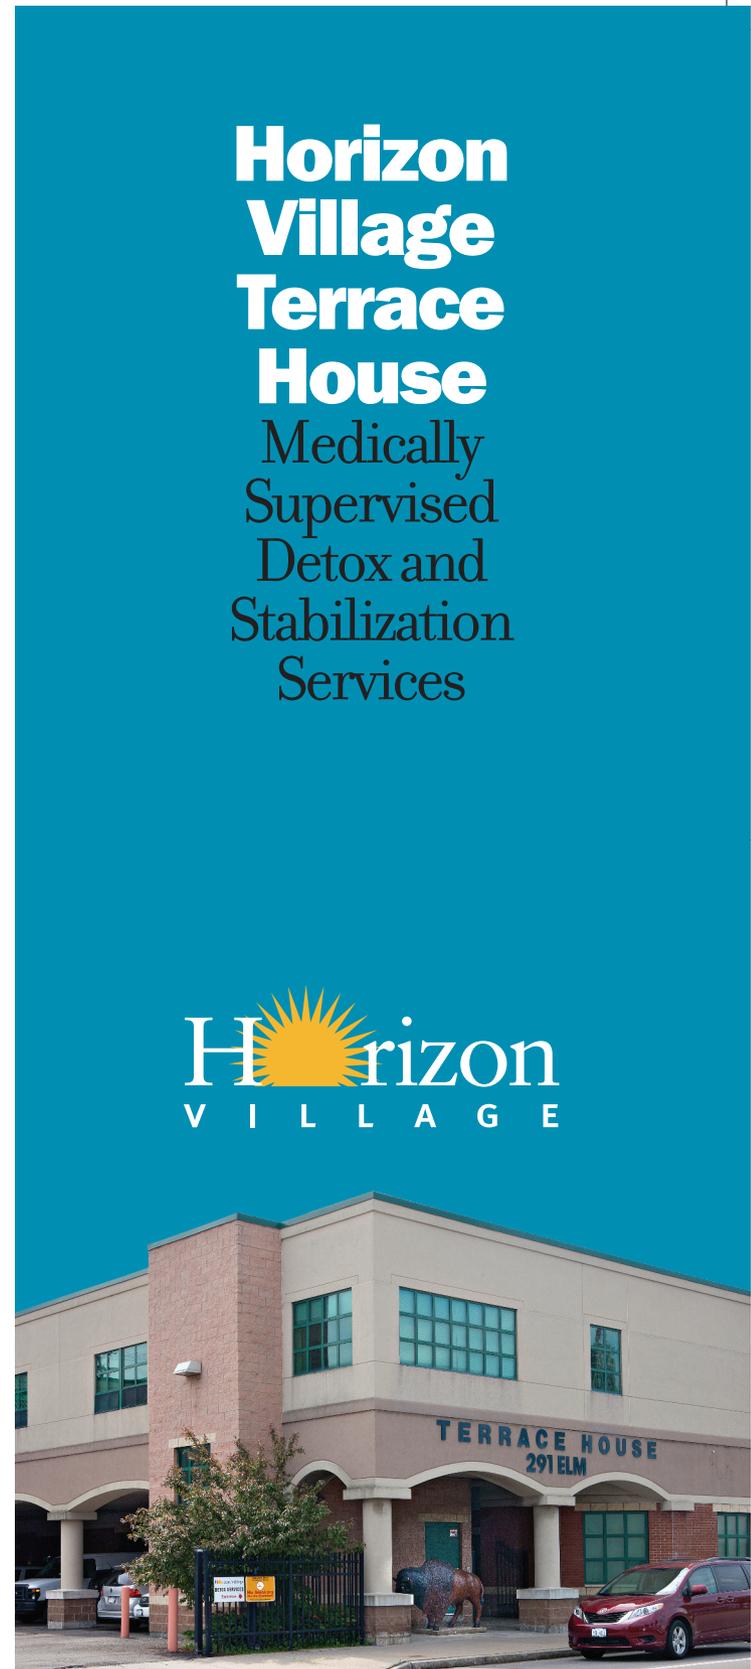

Staff members hold various professional degrees including medicine, psychiatry, nursing, social work, mental health counseling, alcohol and substance abuse counseling and art therapy.
